

“VASILE ALECSANDRI” UNIVERSITY OF BACĂU
FACULTY OF LETTERS
THE ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

ANDREIA IRINA SUCIU

Contemporary English Drama

J. Osborne, H. Pinter, S. Beckett

Lecture notes for IIIrd year students

CONTENTS

PRELIMINARIES.....	7
Drama vs. theatre.....	7
THEATRE AS A SEMIOTIC SYSTEM.....	8
Typologies of the (theatrical) sign.....	10
THEATRICAL COMMUNICATION.....	13
Encoding and decoding: signals, messages, codes, systems.....	13
TEXT vs. PERFORMANCE.....	17
Text.....	17
Structure.....	17
Construction of plot.....	19
Story and plot.....	20
Plot in time or time in plot.....	21
The breaking of time/ time limits/ temporal conventions.....	22
CHARACTERS.....	23
Types of characters.....	23
Actor vs. character.....	25
DIALOGUE.....	26
Stage Directions.....	27
SPACE.....	30
The meanings of space: proxemic relations.....	30
Kinetic factors.....	31
GESTURE AND SPEECH.....	32
Movement and language as complementary/mutually substituting systems.....	32
Paralinguistic factors	33
DRAMA SINCE THE 1950s.....	34
John Osborne.....	36
Introduction – cultural and personal context.....	36
A new hero – between active rhetoric and inactive life.....	38
Characters – between presentness and absentness.....	43
Time and space on stage and outside of it.....	44
Conclusions.....	45

THE THEATRE OF THE ABSURD.....	46
Main features	46
Introduction – defining concepts.....	46
The message(s) of the plays.....	48
The comic of the plays.....	49
Characters.....	51
Time and space.....	52
Language.....	53
Harold Pinter.....	56
Introduction.....	56
Identity through relationships.....	57
Identity through setting.....	58
Identity between speech and silence.....	61
Conclusions.....	64
Samuel Beckett.....	66
Introduction.....	66
Subject matter.....	66
Characters in search of ... (a) Godot.....	68
Idiosyncratic time and space.....	70
Experimenting with language.....	72
Conclusions.....	74
TEXTS FOR ANALYSIS.....	75
GLOSSARY.....	85
BIBLIOGRAPHY.....	88